Description
Provide a short description of the event and its activities.

Activities with the local community and discussion on environmental issues subjected to analysis "Landscape, Traditions and Biodiversity" in order to frame with the local Working Group the issues on which to focus memories, animations, and perspectives (narration, theatre, acting, etc.). The community and the working groups investigated starting from the associations, from the informal groups (senior center bowling alley, etc.) what and how to tell about one's own experience with repercussions on the present and on the proposals for policymakers. Artists in residence, actors, videomakers, photographers, and artists were invited, with whom to interpret the wills and channel the stimuli. A three-day program of community workshops was organized and the experts and artists involved will dialogue with the residents engaging them.

The Municipality of Tripolis organized a three-day film workshop entitled "Filming of oral narratives by people of the Arcadian countryside", within the framework of the European program "PRO.GRE.S.S."

Through this three-day workshop, young people and residents of Tripoli were trained in the way of filming oral testimonies and were thus able to adequately record what will be told on camera by inhabitants of the Arcadian countryside: testimonies that touch on issues of conservation and preservation of the natural heritage, enhancement of natural and cultural assets, preservation of biodiversity, the ecological function of forest areas and enhancement of the connection function of landscapes.

The participants developed new skills and learned methodological tools useful in their research, educational, or even artistic activities, they "saw" and "heard" in new ways the stories of rural people, and thus the degree of participation increased in the European debate on the environment and climate change. At the same time, they learned new practices, which they will be able to implement in their own professional and social areas of action in the future.

It is an exciting journey into the field of oral history, an opening to the world of Human-Centered Documentary, the most emerging genre of cinema, which gives voice to ordinary, everyday people. Through their own experiential narratives, films are made with truth, emotion, and humor, which move, entertain, and educate while at the same time exploring modern everyday life, tradition, nature, history, and economic life.

Description - Provide a short description of the event and its activities.

An international information day on the topic "Threats of Climate Change to the Cultural and Natural Heritage Monuments in the Mediterranean", was held on Saturday 17/6/2023, at the Apostolopouleio Spiritual Center of the Municipality of Tripoli.

The conference was about Climate change and how it affects the monuments of natural and cultural heritage that are listed on the UNESCO list. The Conference was organized by the Municipality of Tripolis in cooperation with the University of Peloponnese, the Region of Peloponnese, and the Academy of Athens, on the occasion of a recently published (November of 2022) specialized study, that was elaborated by the Academy of Athens and specifically by the Research Centre for Atmospheric Physics and Climatology, entitled "Threats of climate change to UNESCO cultural and natural heritage sites in the Mediterranean"

The Conference deliberations have been planned to be on the theme "Climate change threats to UNESCO's cultural and natural heritage sites in the Mediterranean". It is a conference where experts from many different sectors, such as academics, professors, archaeologists from the archaeological service of the Ministry of Culture, research fellows from European research agencies, etc., will present the results of this change, which are already obvious.

Your contribution to this conference will be very beneficial and in this regard, we would like you to join our conference throughout the Zoom platform.

In the context of the conference, new research results were presented regarding the "Monuments and Climate Change" diptych. It should be noted that the former Minister of Climate Crisis and Civil Protection, was also "present" at the conference.
